ANIMAL HEALTH MATTERS

A new publication exploring how animal health shapes our world

COMING EARLY 2017
www.animalhealthmatters.org
Why examine the state of animal health?

Because our health and the health of our friends, families and communities is inextricably tied up with the welfare and wellbeing of animals around the world. To secure a safe and healthy future for our world, we must recognize – animal health matters.

Animal health – be it the wellbeing of our pets or that of the animals we depend upon for food – is part of a vast, interdependent system with a cast of billions.

Animals bring diversity, richness, contribute to local economies and to the quality of life of millions of families around the world. Their health and wellbeing is important to us, and ultimately is essential to protect our own health.

Sign up at www.animalhealthmatters.org and be the first to receive it at launch.

COMING EARLY 2017
www.animalhealthmatters.org